About Us

At Yahoo!, big thinking comes with the territory. When your work reaches over half a billion users--that's 1 out of every 2 people online--there's no small task. We need creative minds that can take us new places; individuals who want to positively impact their career--and the world at large.

We are constantly striving to make the Internet's complex problems simple. Whether that's with a multi-layer, highly available web application that enables half a billion people to better experience the Web, a scalable algorithm that makes sense of the largest user data warehouse in the world or our next big product concept, there's no end to the opportunities here.

We're looking for Big Thinkers who embody the fun, innovative, collaborative spirit that's uniquely Yahoo!.
