

At Palantir, you'll experience things you never knew a career in technology could offer: the freedom and responsibility to make a big difference right away, the opportunity to improve lives in ways that you never knew were possible, and the knowledge that when you say you're building world-changing technology, it's not empty rhetoric, it's reality. We're working to build a future in which public institutions, commercial enterprises, and non-profit organizations can use data to function as they were designed- to fulfill the mandates with which they've been entrusted, to deliver value to customers, and to distribute aid to those most in need.

Solve hard problems. Ship great product. See your impact. If these ideas sound compelling, then we want to hear from you!
