We changed the world with Words With Friends. We led the charge in the mobile gaming revolution by making beloved games that brought the world together. We created 100 million new gamers out of people who had never played games before in their lives. It was totally awesome.

Now we’re starting a new revolution. We’re creating a mecca of game development in Austin, with world-class people, culture, and compensation. We are inventing a series of sexy and dangerous new games on a host of diverse platforms. If you’re an elite engineer and you’re passionate about games, drop us a line. We’re looking for heroes.

PERKS AND CULTURE
- Top-of-market compensation
- Top-of-market healthcare coverage
- Generous equity compensation with huge financial upside
- The coolest, most fun projects in the world
- Small, elite team where everyone has a huge impact
- The best, smartest, nicest people you’ll ever meet in your entire freakin’ life
- A self-perfecting culture that obsesses over creativity, health, and happiness

EXAMPLES OF INTERESTING PROJECTS
We’re a little spoiled in the games industry, because we get to work on the coolest stuff ever. You know what’s super fun? Artificial intelligence, whizz-bang VFX, real-time multiplayer network code, and putting smiles on people’s faces. And creepily watching strangers play your games on the airplane and the movie theater.

If you’re all about that scalably automated fault-tolerant risk management system, then more power to you. Get on with yo’ bad enterprise self, you make the world work. We’ll be over here in the Fun Lab, making the world play.
