

Format of the Final Report, CS 395T, Spring 2007

- Front Matter

Title of the Report

Your Name(s) and contact Information

Date

Abstract

- Introduction

What problem are you solving?

Why are you solving it? Whom will it benefit? What would you learn by solving it?

What did you actually do? What did you accomplish? where did you fail?

How is this report arranged? What are in the different sections?

- Background

The material that a reader needs to know to understand your work and this report.

Has any one done something similar in any other system?

- Contents

A description of your work. This could span over several sections.

- Summary, Conclusion, Future Work

- References

Indicate if any listed reference is not referred to in the text.

- Appendix

This may contain code, supplementary material from other sources, charts and figures, results of experiments, detailed proofs.

You may have several appendices.