
Lessons from your email-index

Placeholder

This deck arrives with your submissions

It is built from the lesson slides in your email-index writeups — collected after the deadline, triaged, and presented back to the class.

Until then it is deliberately empty: the content is the class's own work, and that does not exist yet.

Choose the email-index design

- Choose two approaches just presented. For each, write its claim, supporting evidence, and one condition under which it should win.
- Workload: one 300K-message inbox, 1K new messages/day, interactive two-token searches filtered by sender. Choose one approach.
- Name the measurement that could reverse your choice, then compare with a group that chose differently.
- Deliverable: choice, evidence, reversal measurement, and the decisive disagreement.
